-www.thelistmag.com - a website dedicated to sourcing and sharing weekly nuggets of interest that touch on every topic imaginable

In a world where information is available at our fingertips, indecision can be paralyzing. Looking for ideas on designer gifts, places to visit, books to read? Or do you simply want to be entertained? thelistmag.com is a hive of postmodern activity, collecting the best of the best from all corners of our world, and they will have something for you. The List book takes the site's concepts and reimagines them in a traditional medium. Brimming with glossy photography, blog snippets, interviews and articles,

The List is a constant whiplash of inspiration, discussing and dissecting the trends of the day. In touch, down to earth, and with an eye for the modern-day hipster, this book offers inspiration and information in equal measure.

Born to a family of antiques dealers, Emm Verheyden has cultivated his passion for aesthetics, beautiful objects and trade since his childhood. He used this passion to establish Pulp, the Belgian counterpart of Face and i-D. With The List he develops a brand that explores the potential of print, television, advertisement and technology, while maintaining a key focus on entertainment.

Do Disturb

Encounters with modern day nomads

Desiré van den Berg

-Made in collaboration with citizenM, one of the most talked about hotel chains of the moment with hotels in New York, Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Paris, Glasgow and New York, and with Mendo, the hippest bookstore in Amsterdam and far beyond

-A good mix of photos, quotes and short texts

None of the people in the book are 'cast'. They are 'real' and that makes the book so special. "Who are you and where do you come from? What is the purpose of your visit and what do you always take with you when travelling?" These same questions were asked to travelers in Amsterdam, London, Paris and New York. The result is a collection of open and surprising portraits of modern day nomads. Meet a Belgian mother and her son, a pole dancing business woman, a Saudi travelling for the first time, a DJ and many, many more.

"When God wants you to grow, he makes you uncomfortable"- Stephanie (b.1988, Jakarta), in London for a Hermès business trip.

"I travel a lot because of my job, so I've become a gypsy really. I could live pretty much everywhere on this planet" – Dilyara (b.1988, Moscow), in Amsterdam to have some quality time with her boyfriend.

Desiré van den Berg works as a photographer specialising in subcultures and nightlife. She wants to experience life, holding a camera. She is at her best working under pressure, in unknown places.

Singapore & Penang Street Food

- Singapore and Penang have a lot in common both culinary and culturally. For centuries they have been crossroads of ancient trade and immigration gave them a strong multicultural personality.

-Beside five different Chinese cuisines, Singapore also offers Indian, Malaysian, Indonesian and Thai street food dishes. In Penang you will find similar dishes but with a different touch, a different interpretation. The range of regional varieties is furthermore endless.

-Singapore & Penang street food shows the authentic taste of delicious street food in Malaysia and how the street food scene in Singapore has become more “food court” nowadays. Regulated out of existence years ago, street food vendors moved into “hawker centres” where even the most delicate stomachs have the opportunity to partake. Strict safety and hygiene regulations make Singapore’s hawker food some of the safest “street food” around, keeping high standards of tastiness and authenticity.

Tom Vandenberghe is a passionate traveller, he visited South-Asia several times and even lived there for a while. He is an expert in Thai food and regularly organizes workshops. His book Bangkok street food has won the prize ‘Best of the World 2011’ of the Gourmand World Cookbook Awards.
